

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS IN THE CHURCHYARD AND CEMETERY AT SAINT MARY'S EWELME.

From the surveys undertaken and compiled by

Harry Fell

and

Commander Andrew Browne

in 1988

An index to the names found on the memorials follows.
The numbers given are those on the following churchyard plans. Letters refer to memorials inside the church – see separate document.

INDEX OF SURNAMES

Included in this index are all surnames mentioned anywhere, including brasses and war-service lists. Unusual forenames which could formerly have been surnames are also included. The same name may be mentioned more than once in a single inscription, notably the war-lists (H.)

178. (On south side of church: large tomb) (See B3)
 East side (three panels: above centre "Restored in memory of C.S.D 1934")
 Left end: Translation of the Latin & French on a tablet in the church by C.E. This marble is sacred to the memory of Chas EYRE, a youth of great promise! who an only son, was deservedly beloved by his parents; to wit Geo & marguerite (EYRE) A too ealy fate snatched him out of his life when not born quite 10 yrs. He was one of the students in the college of Boulogne-sur-mer in France, where he eminently distinguished himself in his studies, & endeared himself to his fellow collegians Centre: He died the 8th day of the month of Jan AD 1869 oppressed by a deadly fever. His relicks not his soul are buried in the vault of Chas EYRE his ancestor outside this church. Charlie is not dead: the darling is now gone to school where he will learn for ever goodness. Jesus himself is his father brother and best guide. Christ rules the blessed in Heaven by love alone. In that tranquil region the ever dear one lives. The guardian angel holds the tender hands. Death has not taken him: he whom we say is snatched away by gloomy fate still lives, ever freed from polution's stain.
 A friend, Rd WILSON D.D of Cambridge composed this inscription.
 The principal of the college has declared that Charlie has left at the college the remembrance of a beautiful intelligence, & an excellent heart
 The principal wished & advised that the memory of a youth so excellent & ingenuous, & his intelligence should be especially kept in remembrance.
 The weeping heavily distracted father has taken care that this monument (should be) erected.
 Right: Charlie was born 24th Jan 1859; died of typhus fever & he learned to speak French in 7 months fluently: he possessed a noble mind, and loved truthfulness; indeed; his father ever abominating guile, taught him sincerity. He intended, God willing, when he had finished his education in France, that he should consecutively enter universities in Germany & Italy; then, if he pleased, he should take a degree in an English university: but alas his father's hopes have been suddenly blasted: the affliction is as appalling as any ever recorded. By universal law, death is decreed but the time may be stayed by the intercessory prayer of parents: but here that was wanting.
